

Please, please, please, do something about the violent and sexual material our children are exposed to everyday. My children are older now, teenagers, and it is still very important that I monitor what is on the TV. One used to feel fairly safe that if something was on tv it had been censored, that it was "ok" for children. These days, the only channel that I do not have to monitor is PBS. Even the Super Bowl, last year and now this year, with it's ad for a Viagra-like drug... am I the only one that doesn't want to hear that at 8:00 pm with a room full of people of all ages gathered to watch a sporting event? The violence is out of hand, with the previews for adults shows (9:00 pm ) being showed in early evening. At least, could we show the violent/scary/inappropriate shows no earlier than 10:00, with no previews shown earlier? I realize what is appropriate for some may not be for others but if we ask ourselves would we want to sit and watch the show with a 5 year old, 16 year old or a 80 year old, that might help us decide when and if to air a show. Thank you!